

Religion in Society

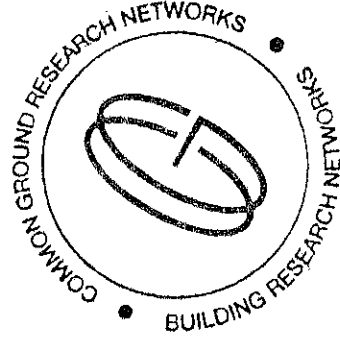

Seventh International Conference on Religion and Spirituality in Society

Imperial College London
London, UK
17-18 April 2017
www.religioninsociety.com

Hajed Alotaibi of Bangor University, United Kingdom, attended the Sixth International Conference on Religion and Spirituality in Society as an in-person participant. Hajed Alotaibi presented the paper, Which Custom Might Be the Source of Legislation? An Islamic Perspective.

Hajed Alotaibi played an important role in the International Conference on Religion and Spirituality in Society, which sets out to describe, analyze, and interpret the role of religion and spirituality in society. The bases of this endeavor are cross-disciplinary. The intellectual project is neutral with respect to the agendas of particular religions or explicit counterpoints to religion such as agnosticism or atheism. These media are intended to provide spaces for careful, scholarly reflection and open dialogue.

Dr. Phillip Kalantzis-Cope, Director
Common Ground Research Network

